RAILS SWEEP DUBLIN; POLICE CHIEF SHOT DEAD

LABOR BOMBS' SHAKE FLATS ON NORTH SIDE

Nonunion Billposter, Janitor, Targets.

Residents of the north side were startled shortly before midnight by two bomb explosions, the detonations of which were heard from Logan Square to Fullerton avenue and the lake. Labor troubles, according to the police, were responsible for the blasts.

The first bomb was exploded in the court of the Preuss apartments at 2524-2526 Kedzie boulevard. Windows in the first two floors were shattered as well as those of nearby buildings. According to the police, Frank Nachter, owner of the building, discharged a union janitor two weeks ago and employed a nonunion man to attend the furnace. The bomb was placed near the entrance of the Nachter apartment on the first floor.

Hurl Bomb from Auto.

The second bomb, the more powerful of the two, was hurled from a passing automobile into the front yard of a two-story frame residence at 2456 Orchard street, the first floor of which is occupied by the family of Oliver DeShon, a nonunion billposter, employed by the elevated lines.

Every window was smashed and the front of the building badly damaged. Windows for a block in either direction were broken.

The billposters on the elevated lines went on strike early in the year and nonunion men were employed to take their places. DeShon said he had been working for the lines for several weeks and had been threatened a number of times.

Lillian Dunlap, 13 year old daughter of John W. Dunlap, owner of the building, who lives on the second floor, said she saw a black automobile drive past the house shortly before the explosion occurred and said a man threw a package from the auto.

Saw Three Men in Bomb Car.

"There were three men in the car," she said. "One of them tossed an object that looked like a paper bag on fire into the front yard. It fell about four feet away from the house."

Charles Schanial, 16 years old, 2455 Orchard street, also saw the car.

Mrs. DeShon and her three children, Ralph, 6, Virginia, 4, and Arthur, 2, were asleep at the time and were nearly hurled from their beds by the shock.

JANITORS QUIT PARLEY

The negotiations between the Flat Janitors' union and a committee representing the Chicago real estate board ended in another disagreement yesterday. William Quesse, president of the union, announced he was through negotiating unless an arbitrator to settle the wage controversy of the janitors is selected at once.

"The split wasn't serious, and there probably will be another conference this afternoon in an effort to agree upon the third man to act on the arbitration board," said James J. Carroll, chairman of the renting division of the Chicago real estate board.

Quesse a Peculiar Man

"Quesse is one of those peculiar men one can't understand readily," he continued. "At the conference we asked for a short time to look over the agreement which the real estate board offered the janitors. After a few minutes Mr. Quesse inquired about something pertaining to arbitration. Before we had time to answer he said he wanted the third man appointed on the arbitration board right away, and then walked out of the conference room."

At union headquarters Quesse said he intended to call a strike of janitors on all buildings controlled by the W. K. Young company.

"That strike will be called today," he said, "because their representative on the real estate board is not giving the union committee a fair deal in the present mixup."

Agent Discovers Threat.

H. H. Lunt, of the Young Real Estate company, doubted that Quesse would call the strike threatened. "If he does, however, it will affect close to 1,000 buildings in the city," Lunt said. "At times like this the union officials try to intimidate the members of the committee appointed to deal with them in an effort to gain their end."

Champagne on Cornerstone and Whisky Is Inside It

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 17.—A bottle of Scotch whisky today was placed within the champagne christened cornerstone of the First National Bank of Jersey City, of which Gov. Edwards is president.

LOLITA ARMOUR WILL WED SON OF JOHN J. MITCHELL

Links Two of Chicago's Greatest Fortunes.

Announcement was made last night of the engagement of Lolita Armour, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, to John J. Mitchell Jr., son of the chairman of the boards of directors of three of Chicago's largest banks.

The announcement, carrying as it does the news of the projected union of two of Chicago's largest fortunes, was made by Mrs. Armour over the telephone to THE TRIBUNE. She added no details and said the date for the wedding had not been set.

Inquiry at the Armour home

at 3724 South Michigan avenue as to whether the engagement was the result of a romance brought the laughing answer:

"I suppose there has been lots of it, if they would only tell us."

Friends Since Childhood.

While the announcement of the engagement came unexpectedly, it could not be said to be exactly a surprise. The two young people whom it intimately concerns have known each other practically all their lives, and have been childhood playmates and later associated in the same social circles.

Both are leaders among the younger set. Miss Armour is the heiress to a fortune which is conservatively estimated at $60,000,000, but a large part of which undoubtedly will go to the development of her father's and grandfather's pet project, the Armour institute, of which Miss Armour herself has been a director for the last three years.

Young Mitchell will share in a fortune

conservatively estimated at $10,000,000.

Fortune Founded by Grandfather.

The Armour fortune was founded by Philip D. Armour, the grandfather of Miss Armour, who was the founder of the packing house concern that bears his name. The greater share of the fortune went to J. Ogden, whose City business property at 1222-24 Michigan avenue valued at $105,000, and a $150,000 home at Santa Barbara, Cal. Miss Armour also has been elected a director of the Armour institute.

Mitchell a Financial Power.

The father of young Mitchell is one of the city's leading financiers. Until recently he was best known as president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, but a merger was arranged between this bank, the Merchants Loan and Trust company, and the Corn Exchange National Bank. Mitchell was elected chairman of the boards of directors of all three banks, and will be the chairman of the board of the merged banks.

Mitchell Hurt in Air Service.

Young Mitchell was a sophomore at Yale when the war with Germany broke out. He immediately enlisted in the naval aviation service, was commissioned an ensign, and sent to Key West, Fla. While there he was involved in an accident which nearly cost him his life.

Young Mitchell's airplane collided with one operated by Student Aviator Thomas W. Eaton of Wilmington, Del., when both were about 100 feet in the air, attempting to make landings. Eaton was spiraling downwards when he struck Mitchell, who was flying straight. Both machines crashed to the ground, and Eaton was picked up dead.

Young Mitchell's injuries were severe

and he was hurried to the naval hospital. After several weeks there he was brought to the Mitchell country home at Lake Geneva, where he finally recovered from his injuries.

SINCE CIVILIZATION WAS SAVED

(Copyright, 1920, By The Chicago Tribune.)

GREAT HISTORIC PAGEANT DIES AS POLICE INTRUDE

They walked right in and they turned around and they walked right out again last night at Wicker Park hall, 2046 West North avenue.

Leonard Wood post of the American Legion had advertised an aesthetic treat in the way of historical pageantry, features of which comprised scenes from the Garden of Eden, with a fashion review; incidents in the life of Lady Godiva; the seafoam in which Aphrodite rose from the couch shell; and illustrations from Salome's diary. Ticket sellers had been swamped with orders at $1.50 the cardboard.

Two hours before the pageant was scheduled to begin a world's series line-up formed in West North avenue. The doors opened exactly at 8 o'clock—and the expectant spectators encountered by missing from the box office two plain clothes men and a dozen bluecoats. They seemed to object to the pageant.

Detective Sergeant Paddy Nolan

refused to each of the 2,000 and more ticket holders his $1.50.

FRANK P. KNIGHT, REALTY MAN, IS MISSING IN EAST

Frank P. Knight, for twenty years associated with the real estate firm of W. K. Young & Co., who has been in Boston for several weeks recuperating from a collapse, is reported mysteriously by missing from the home of his brother in that city.

Mr. Knight had been regaining his health, according to dispatches. Last Tuesday he started to the home of his sister, Mrs. George F. Nowell, in a Boston suburb. He has not been seen since. Yesterday relatives appealed to the police to aid in the search for him. He is reported to have been carrying a large sum of money, and relatives express the fear he may have been robbed and slain, as he had papers in his pocket which would have identified him.

BANDIT SHOT BY POLICE IN FIGHT AFTER HOLDUP

Following an assault on a taxicab driver on North avenue early this morning, Vincent Riley, one of six men in an automobile being pursued by the police, was shot and probably fatally injured by Policemen John O. Mick and Otis Deriel. The taxi driver, David Wolfson, said the men attacked him without provocation and tried to rob him. The police in an auto followed the six men and caught up with them at Larrabee and North avenue, where a battle occurred. Riley, who resided at 1545 North La Salle street, was shot through the stomach. His companions escaped.

Prussian Supreme Court Upholds Eugenics Act

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Eugenics was boosted when the Prussian Supreme court decided a man could not sue for breach of promise when a girl filed him because he refused to obtain a health certificate.

DETECTIVES POSE AS MADMEN TO TRAP FUGITIVE

$26,000 Suspect in Forgery Case Taken.

Harry D. Tisdale, former auditor of the Manufacturers' Junction railway, has been apprehended in Des Moines, Ia., where he was found in a sanitarium.

An extradition hearing will be held today before Gov. Harding, when Detective Sergeant William Shay of Chicago will tell the governor Tisdale embezzled $26,238 from the railway company.

But that's only part of the story.

You remember "way back when" you used to read "Nick Carter" and the "Old King Brady" series? Well—

Six weeks ago two men appeared at Hill's retreat in Des Moines. One displayed a star and a commitment paper for a lunatic. The other held a stack of checks a foot high.

"Another crazy fish for you, doctor," said the officer to the guard.

"Fish, eh?" snickered the "patient" with the checks. "Say, young man, I have a checking account of $17,000,000. I want to buy the state of Iowa. How much?"

The new inmate was soon playing

about the asylum rooms with the other inmates, and the guards named the newcomers "Morganfield." In a few days he became acquainted with an inmate to whom the guards referred as "Rockie."

Checks? Pshaw, Cash!

"Say, Rockie," said Morganfield. "I got some dough. I have. Look, check. Certified checks. Worth $17,000,000 if I'm worth a nickel. Don't you wish you were rich, Rockie?"

"Listen, Morg," said Rockie. "I got cash. Twenty thousand in cash—better than all your checks. I think perhaps I'll show you the cash some day."

Enter Napoleon.

Three weeks ago the same sheriff

appeared at the entrance with another patient. The newest arrival wore a paper hat, fashioned after the style of Napoleon. He carried a broom stick. Soon "Nap" was riding his broomstick about the place with a fervor that would have enthused even the "Little Corporal." One day he rode between Rockie and Morganfield.

"Want to sell your horse?" asked "Morg."

"You fellows haven't any money—giddyup," said "Nap," and he galloped away.

"I'll show you my money some day," said "Rockie" to "Morg."

So it went until yesterday. Yesterday "Morg" tore up his checks and "Nap" threw down his broom. They went to the headquarters of the insane, gave their names as E. Blinn and C. P. O'Brien, operatives of the Pinkerton National Detective agency.

"Want to give 'Rockie' a chance to show us his money," said they. "He is Harry D. Tisdale, and he is wanted in Chicago. He's a crook."

The proprietor looked dubious.

"What do they want with any more crooks in Chicago?" he asked.

NEW YORK TRIES TO CHECK CRIME; 'WAVE' ROLLS ON

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—New York City's crime wave continued tonight, while civic organizations, officials, and individuals tried to halt it.

The latest crime was the holdup in the Bronx tonight of Carl Tiederman, 25, an automobile salesman. He was shot and seriously wounded. He was taken to a hospital. There his condition was reported as critical.

When he was riding in a taxicab in Central park tonight Mrs. Thomas W. Edgar, 67, West End avenue, was held up at the point of a pistol and robbed of money and jewelry. They searched her stockings for valuables.

Earlier in the day Police Lieutenant Floyd Horton died from bullet wounds received during a battle with bandits whom he interrupted last night as they were operating in upper Broadway. One of the men, Joseph Lorech, was found later, dead from a bullet believed to have been fired by the policeman.

Rates for burglary insurance here have advanced $18 to $25 a thousand in slightly more than a year, brokers said.

BANDITS HALT ONE TRAIN TO LOOT ANOTHER

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 17.—Placing a stolen seven passenger automobile on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad tonight, bandits caused the stopping of train No. 1, the "Minneapolis Flyer," at the Watertown crossing. After the train had left the machine members of the crew ran forward to see if any one was injured. Meanwhile block signals in the road halted a fast merchandise train near Elm Grove. The bandits pointed pistols at the train crew and robbed the freight cars of thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise. The loot was hauled away in two auto trucks.

Railroad officials declared that the train carried furs, liquor, clothing, shoes, tobacco, and milk. Detectives working on the case assert they are without any clue.

Bathtub Too Small for Woman Held No Defense

Mrs. Ida Margaret, 1221 Turner avenue, appeared as defendant yesterday before Municipal Judge Lawrence B. Jacobs. Joseph Epstein, a plumber, had installed a bathtub in an apartment owned by Mrs. Margaret, and she had refused to pay a balance due him because the bathtub was too small for her tenant, Mrs. Ida Goldblatt, it was shown. Epstein said he couldn't "help it if a person is too big for the tub." He obtained judgment.

Auto Sale Chief, Short $10,000, Taken; Gambling

Hans J. Gransow of Oak Park, former sales manager for the Maxwell Sales company, 2457 South Michigan boulevard, who is alleged to have embezzled $10,000 of the company's money, was arrested yesterday afternoon in the Continental and Commercial National bank building by Detective Sergeant Birch and Bahr.

He said he had lost it gambling.

WOMAN IN TAXI FINDS $150,000; NO CLAIMANTS

Row Over U.S. Bonds Bares Weird Story.

Who left $150,000 in United States treasury certificates in a taxicab under such circumstances that he, or she, never has wanted to claim them?

The fact that ten $10,000 treasury notes were found—in a Chicago taxicab last March—was revealed yesterday by Charles C. Jagger, owner of an express company of Gary, Ind., who announced that his wife found them and had advertised for the owner in New York and Chicago newspapers.

That the advertisement had been printed was shown by THE TRIBUNE files. Beginning on Oct. 24 and continuing for one week, this advertisement appeared in THE TRIBUNE advertising columns:

FOUND—10 GOVERNMENT BONDS, DUE Dec. 14; can be obtained by proper identification, showing transaction with bank beyond reasonable doubt. Address L. 240, Tribune.

How Story Was Revealed.

The advertisement was inserted on the order of H. Faber, a merchant of Gary, Ind.

There never was an answer to that advertisement. No more was heard of the bonds until Mr. Jagger yesterday charged that Herman Faber—the man who inserted the advertisement—had taken three of the $10,000 government notes from Mrs. Jagger by force and had failed to pay anything for them. He also charged that Benjamin J. Laube, Justice of the peace, had obtained one of the $10,000 bonds and had thus far failed to pay for it.

Jagger said that suit had been filed against both, but this was denied by the county clerk at Crown Point.

Faber and Laube denied they had obtained any bonds from Jagger except by purchase.

Once Held by Two Banks.

According to Jagger's story, his wife found the notes loosely folded on the seat of a taxicab in which she was going to the La Salle street station in Chicago. There were ten $10,000 and ten $5,000 certificates, he said. Capt. Hall of the United States secret service of Indianapolis and the police finally had been sent from the United States treasury to the Federal Reserve bank of Boston and from there sent to another bank. There they appear to have found them.

Officers of the Chicago federal reserve bank last night said they had received no notice of any of the treasury certificates described by Jagger having been stolen.

Inquiries in Boston brought the information that neither the federal reserve bank nor any other bank there had been robbed of any treasury notes.

Jagger tried to sell bonds.

"I am not fully acquainted with the details of the transaction," Faber said. "Jagger asked me to cash three of the $10,000 notes for him. He was willing to take less than their face value and I arranged in Chicago to obtain $15,000 for him. At his request I advertised in Chicago and New York newspapers. I believe the owner was killed and the bonds stolen from him before Mrs. Jagger found them."

Jagger has no cause for complaint against me," Laube said. "It looks as if some one is trying to make me the goat. Jagger came to me some time ago with a proposition to pay me a commission if I would obtain the certificates of indebtedness. I accepted and obtained a loan at the First National bank of Gary. I gave the money to Jagger."

Banker Tells of Loan.

F. E. Schaff, president of the Gary bank, substantiated Laube's story. "Mr. Laube presented certificate No. 1,642 for $10,000 to us for a loan. We investigated at the federal reserve bank in Chicago. Laube made affidavit that the paper was his own. Later Faber presented three certificates of $10,000 each for collection. We decided then and there to handle no more of these certificates."

Half a dozen Chicago bankers, called at random, declared they had not heard of thefts or the loss of these treasury certificates.

Insofar as could be learned last night, nobody seems to care what becomes of the $150,000 which Mrs. Jagger, wife of a Gary expressman, found in a taxicab.

Pat O'Brien, Noted Flyer, Is Found Shot

KILLED AT FAIR WITH GIRL HE WAS TO MARRY

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17.—Lieut. Pat O'Brien, famous world war aviator, was found dead in a room in a downtown hotel here tonight. The police said there was a bullet wound in the forehead and a revolver near by.

The police said O'Brien left a note declaring he intended to kill himself because of separation from his wife, with whom he vainly had attempted to effect a reconciliation tonight.

O'Brien, a native of Lomenue, Ill., went to Canada early in the world war and enlisted in the Royal Flying corps. He was shot in the face and made unconscious while two miles in the air and fell behind the German lines.

Taken prisoner, he later was being removed from one camp to another when he leaped from the window of a moving train. Moving at night and hiding by day, he eluded the Germans for seventy-two days and finally cut his way through the barbed wire entanglements into Holland. He had walked 250 miles.

BULLETIN.

DUBLIN, Dec. 17.—[By The Associated Press.]—It is reported that negotiations for a truce between the British military authorities and the Irish republican army actually began last week, but were interrupted by the Cork fires. Intermediaries now are trying to effect a resumption of the negotiations.

DUBLIN, Dec. 17.—[By The Associated Press.]—The entire business section of Dublin was raided by the police this evening following the shooting of District Inspector O'Sullivan of Dublin castle.

The inspector was passing a fancy fair in Henry street, accompanied by a Miss Moore, to whom he was engaged to be married.

Inspector O'Sullivan died in a hospital an hour after the shooting. He was fired upon by two masked civilians.

O'Sullivan, who was employed in the inspector general's office in Dublin castle, was wearing civilian clothes. Henry street, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the city, was thickly crowded with workers returning home when the murder occurred.

Girl Seizes Revolver.

The shooting took place within fifty yards of the Nelson pillar. Three men suddenly fired point blank at O'Sullivan, who fell. Miss Moore seized the revolver of one of the assailants of O'Sullivan and prevented him from firing again, but the other man discharged his weapon into the body.

A crowd immediately surrounded the group, but, according to the official report, when it was learned the victim was a policeman, the people abstained from interfering.

Miss Moore recently received a letter purporting to have been sent by a Sinn Fein organization warning her to cease going with O'Sullivan.

Mr. White is proceeding to Villarica and will be cut off from communication for some time. On emerging from the zone he will compare the disaster with the great eruption on the Alaskan coast a few years ago, the smoking scene of which is one of the wonders of the world.

MONASTERIES RAIDED

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

DUBLIN, Dec. 17.—Two monasteries and churches were raided in Dublin this morning. The Franciscan monastery, in Church street, was occupied by the military for six hours. All documents were taken and the rooms minutely searched.

Two priests were taken to Dublin castle. Father Albert, one of the arrested men, was released within a few hours, but Father Dominick is still in custody.

Try to Intimidate Priest.

Father Albert tells a remarkable story of his treatment in Dublin castle. He was taken with Father Dominick, and they were brought through shell barracks into separate rooms of the castle and interrogated in the presence of officials and officers.

One man in multi got a rope, made a noose, and dangled it suggestively before the priest and also displayed a revolver. A military officer said something to this man, who retired.

Subsequently the priest was taken to a passage and placed with his face to a wall under armed guard. The man in multi again came along and asked: "Didn't you shoot him yet?"

Then, turning toward Father Albert and toying with his revolver, he pointed it at the priest and asked him if he, who aided and abetted in murder and outrage, expected to get to heaven. The priest asked for time to say contrition. He was released shortly afterwards in a state of nervous prostration.

Chaplain for MacSwiney.

Father Dominick, who was the chaplain for the late Terence MacSwiney, left Cork two weeks ago to pursue his clerical research in Dublin.

The Carmelite monastery, on Clarendon street, was the other place raided. The soldiers smashed the door open with hatchets and rifle butts before the fathers could open it. The entire building was searched, but no arrests were made.

AGREE ON HOME RULE.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—[By The Associated Press.]—The possibility of a conflict between the house of lords and the house of commons over the Irish home rule bill has been averted. The amendments of the measure made by the lower house were amicably discussed in the upper chamber today and all were disposed of in a manner that will permit the measure becoming a law tomorrow.

SACRIFICE SALES RELIEVE SHAKY ENGLISH FINANCE

Business Pressing for Trade with Russia.

By JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1920, By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Socialist Daily Herald today gave publicity to rumors, circulating for the last week or two, that the big financial concerns are applying for a moratorium to tide them over a difficult time during the next three months, thereby preventing a great financial crash.

A leading financial authority told me today that while the subject has been mentioned in financial conferences, it has never been seriously considered, though it might have been necessary had conditions not improved within the last week.

Produce Market in Peril.
The banks are in a fairly strong position, but Mincing lane (the produce market) is in a very bad way and some heavy failures are expected.

The general manufacturing situation has improved slightly because of the action of the banks a few weeks ago in restricting loans, which forced the manufacturers and retailers to cut prices in order to realize on their stocks.

The public responded to the reductions, buying freely, and many mills, which had planned to shut down for the winter, are now carrying on in order to replace their depleted stocks.

Look to Russia.
All British business is eager for a speedy resumption of trade with Russia, which it is believed will readily absorb immense quantities of goods, and there is growing impatience at the dragging out of negotiations between the government and M. Krassin, the Russian trade envoy.

Another delay has just been announced which is due to the government stiffening its clauses prohibiting the propaganda of bolshevism in England and trying to make Russia assume responsibility for all acts of all Russian citizens. It was expected the agreement would be completed yesterday, but now it is announced that M. Krassin must send back the new clauses to Moscow for discussion.

The first work in parliament after the Christmas holidays must be to deal with the two questions, trade and unemployment. The traders demand that the government reopen all foreign markets to prevent national bankruptcy, while labor is uniting with them in the demand on the ground that it will increase employment.

HOME RULE BILL DEBATED.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
LONDON, Dec. 17.—The lords considered the home rule bill after the concessions by the house of commons of the lords' amendments. There still is danger of the bill falling between the house of lords and commons.

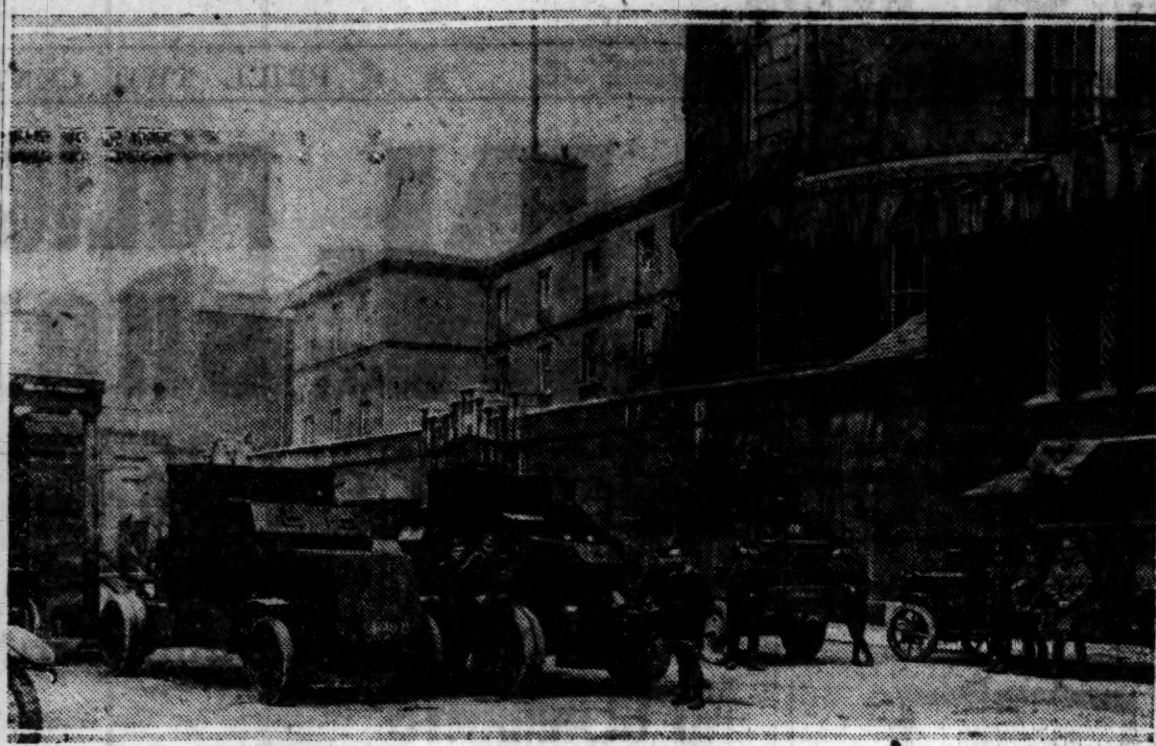

The lords tonight on off of two important amendments made part concessions concerning the council of Ireland, but added an amendment to the commons' original clause so that the bill must again return to the commons. The debate continues.

FEDERAL JUDGE EXCORIATES JURY FOR BEER APPEAL
Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 17.—The federal grand jury was excoriated by federal judge P. A. Geiger for its petition to Wisconsin congressmen for light wines and beer when the judge today recovered the jury.

The judge discharged the jury after censuring them.
"Whatever men functioning in court may think about social, political, or economic laws is no concern of yours," he said. "When the petition was presented to the court the court declined to receive the paper and expressed its disapproval and gave the advertisement of its being outside of the province of jurors to give any expression of laws."

"The wisdom of prohibition is of no concern to the federal grand jury."

EX-KAISER SUES TO STOP BOOK BY BISMARCK

Memoirs Contain His Private Letters.

(Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.)
(Copyright, 1920.)
BERLIN, Dec. 17.—How Bismarck came near burning the manuscript of the third volume of his memoirs was told in court yesterday afternoon. This was when the case was resumed by which the ex-king is endeavoring to obtain a legal judgment preventing Messrs. Cotta from publishing the book, as it contains private letters which he claims cannot be published without his sanction.

The judge said that in "the tragic conflict between the old statesman and the young ruler" there was bound to be much straight talk, but as the substance of the volume was now generally known, he suggested that publication should be permitted and the proceeds given to charity. This suggestion, however, did not appeal to either side.

Bismarck in Bad Temper.
Counsel for Messrs. Cotta said the book was written while Bismarck still felt his dismissal deeply and when he was in an understandable bad temper, so it was easy to see why the ex-king and his partisans did not wish publication. Bismarck made no condition that the book should not be published till after the ex-king's death. As for the claim of the ex-king regarding his letters, counsel said the letters were not actually written by him. They were not private letters, but state documents.

Might Hurt Monarchist Cause.
An interesting point in the proceedings was the admission by the ex-king's counsel that monarchists recently approached Messrs. Cotta with a view to persuading them not to publish the book at present. "They laid special stress," said counsel, "on the fact that publication would do great harm to the monarchist cause."

The court will give its decision before Christmas, and there is belief that publication will be permitted.

Less than 500 Delinquent on Income Tax Payment
A check up of the total taxes collected in the final installment of the federal income tax disclosed yesterday that there are less than 500 actual delinquents in the Chicago district. Although exact figures cannot be made public, it was said that of the $3,000,000 remaining unpaid, less than $2,000,000 represented delinquent taxes.

Strengthen Defenses

DUBLIN, Dec. 17.—In order to prevent a surprise attack at points considered vulnerable, Dublin castle was being strongly fortified today. On the northwest corner of the castle the street was closed and barbed wire barricades were placed. Dublin castle's weekly summary of events in Ireland, issued today, contains leading articles on the "truce talk," which it terms "just simple, plain propaganda."

BIG TAXPAYERS MAY GET 50 DAYS' GRACE ON INCOME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(Special.)—Favorable action on the Edmunds bill relieving income tax delinquents of penalties was taken today by the house ways and means committee. The bill was amended to make the period of grace fifty days instead of sixty. It is designed to take care of large taxpayers who failed to pay the final installment of their 1919 taxes on Dec. 15 because of declines in inventory values during the present year, which have wiped out their 1919 profits.

Representative Fordney, chairman of the ways and means committee, announced his intention of calling the bill up for house action early next week. It is expected that both the house and senate will pass it without delay.

J. S. Bache, New York banker, before the committee today urged the adoption of a sales tax applying to all turnovers. Mr. Bache was the first witness to advocate such a tax, others appearing during the week having declared such a tax impracticable.

The scheme of taxation favored by Mr. Bache would include a protective tariff to raise from $600,000,000 to $700,000,000 annually, excise taxes such as those on tobacco, etc., raising about $300,000,000, a 5 per cent normal income tax raising about $500,000,000, and $2,000,000,000 or more from a turnover sales tax.

A tax of 1/4 of 1 per cent on all bank deposits is proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Treadway, Massachusetts, Republican.

FILIPINO CHIEFS ARREST 78 FOR FATAL RIOTING

By WALTER WILGUS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1920, By The Chicago Tribune.)
MANILA, Dec. 17.—Seventy-eight members of the native constabulary are being held under charges of having taken part in the rioting in which four Americans and seven Filipinos were killed. None of their officers has been implicated.
Gov. Gen. Harrison has increased the guard in the city, while the Philippine legislature has ordered an investigation.

An eyewitness gives much credit for quelling the riot to Father Tejero, an Augustinian priest, who, clad in the full robes of his order, calmly walked into the group of crazed constabulary and ordered them in the name of the church to disperse. One soldier thrust a bayonet at his breast, but the priest raised a crucifix and the mob was quelled by his sheer nerve.

The remains of Capt. Wichmann, who was killed in the riot, will be cremated and the ashes scattered on the Pacific ocean, in accordance with his wishes.

LEAVES SEVEN CHILDREN.

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American police captain, W. E. Wichmann, leaves a widow and seven children, the eldest 11 years old.

Witnesses of the riot declare the shooting of Augustus Jacuman, an army field clerk, was shocking. Jacuman held up both hands, indicating to the constabulary soldiers that he was not a policeman, but he was killed with two bullets through the head.

Thanks to Wilson.
A joint resolution of thanks to President Wilson for his recommendation for Filipino independence was adopted today by the Philippine legislature.

Fail to Agree.
Later, the full ways and means committee met in executive session but failed to reach a final agreement. In this meeting some of the Democrats declared their willingness to support an embargo bill, but refused to support a measure imposing high import duties on the ground that it was contrary to Democratic policy.

Representative Fordney, Michigan, chairman, adhered to his view that an embargo would be unwise. He said he feared retaliation by other nations and a serious effect upon foreign trade.

Rainey Opposes Tariff.
Representative Rainey, Illinois, ranking committee Democrat, expressed the views of a section of the minority party.

"This high tariff proposition is so utterly opposed to Democratic doctrines that I cannot go along with it," he said.

Shayne Hats Are Reduced Now Six Dollars

This is not a "sale" in a strict sense of the word. It is merely a mid-season adjustment which we are making out of respect for the natural tendency towards lower costs.

The nice part of it for you is that you can have a full season's service out of the hat you buy now at a very substantial saving.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING,
Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(Special.)—The United States government is lagging farther and farther behind European countries in the development of aviation. When the war of the air the United States is ill equipped as to personnel, and in commercial aviation we have scarcely started.

The air force is inadequate and the plants are either obsolete or inadequate. The navy air force is inadequate with the aeronautic personnel of the British and French air forces.

First Line of Defense.

Great Britain is concentrating on the development of naval aviation, in the construction of four aircraft carriers, a fleet of which will be the first line of defense in the future. The United States is launching a big naval aviation program.

Recommendations Only Four.

A general board of the navy recommended the construction of four aircraft carriers in the next three years.
Secretary Daniels did not include his recommendations to the naval affairs committee.
The development of aircraft for the navy is now perfectly evident
in the use of airplanes
in the war of the future. The navy will have a great advantage over a navy not trained in their use, the navy having a speed of thirty knots.

Recommendations Only Four.

Activities in the navy are being made to obtain information establishing a bureau of aeronautics, headed by a rear admiral. According to navy department, Capt. William A. Moffett is in command of the Great Naval Training station and recently commander of the battleship, is slated for director of aeronautics and head of the active bureau.

A GOOD FELLOW'S GREAT DAY

The two Good Fellow trucks, heaped with an abundance of Christmas cheer of all kinds by the generosity of one Chicago Good Fellow who prefers to keep his name secret, which yesterday brought food and Yule bounty sufficient for two weeks to 27 needy Chicago families, comprising 152 persons. The Good Fellows followed the trucks on their mission of mercy in a taxicab and experienced the personal joy of helping others.

EARLY BIRD OF GOOD FELLOWS IS SANTA FOR 152

Finds Joy Supreme in Aiding Others.

Santa Claus made his first visit of the year to Chicago homes yesterday.
Shortly before 8 o'clock in the morning two heavily loaded motor trucks
left the vicinity of Fifty-third street and Hyde Park boulevard on the early Christmas mission. Before they returned to their garages food enough to last several weeks had been distributed to twenty-seven families, numbering 152 persons.

Following the trucks as they journeyed through the poorer sections on the south and west sides was a taxicab
in which rode the giver of the food, Mr. Goodfellow, who doesn't wish his real name used, and a TRIBUNE reporter. In Mr. Goodfellow's pocket was a list of twenty-five families picked at random from the thousands listed in the offices of THE TRIBUNE. As each home was reached conditions were investigated and food was left.

Yule Cheer for 27 Homes.

At each of twenty-three homes two and a half bushels of potatoes, a bushel of apples, fifty pounds of flour, ten pounds of sugar, ten pounds of navy beans, a ten pound pail of lard, eight pounds of onions, a four and a half pound slab of bacon, a ten pound ham, five pounds of rice, two pounds of candy, two pounds of mixed nuts, and oranges and condensed milk according to the number of children were left,
while at two homes where conditions were not quite so bad this order was cut in two and two other families aided.

And Now, Good Fellows, you will be told of a few of the cases of dire want found by this particular Good Fellow and the reporter on their trip, and of the happiness this Mr. Good Fellow won by making others happy, so that you, too, may provide Christmas cheer for as many needy families as possible.

Father Invalid; Son Blind.

At 5325 Shields avenue the investigator paid a visit to Mrs. Nora Collins, who has an invalid husband and six children. For five years Collins has been unable to aid in keeping the little family together. One of the children, a boy, is blind.

The visitors found Mrs. Margaret

Lomansy in a scantily furnished apartment above a saloon at 3707 South Halsted street, with six of her seven children, the youngest less than a year old. The seventh and oldest child, a boy of 12, is with his father in the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium.

When Mr. Goodfellow entered the second apartment near at 2955 Lyman street he came upon James Pesek, a paralytic, busily at work on a crude frame while three children played on

Jugo-Slav Cabinet Falls;

New Constitution in View

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, Dec. 17.—Word has been received from Belgrade today that M.
Pachitch, president of the constituent assembly, announced that the old cabinet has resigned. He declared that notwithstanding Communist obstruction in the assembly the majority of the members were desirous of deciding upon a new constitution.

Husband Insane; 5 Children.

Mrs. Annie Goralski's husband is insane and she has to work to provide food for her five children, while Mrs.
Annie Hynes of 2536 Lowe avenue is a widow with five children.

The other homes yielded like cases

of destitution, and, Goodfellows there are hundreds just like them in Chicago.
If you don't help, their Christmas will be cheerless. Won't you fill out the coupon found elsewhere in the paper and take care of some needy families?
And the wounded heroes of the world war who are patients in Chicago hospitals also are looking to the Goodfellows for their Christmas. They will not be disappointed.

FINAL CENSUS FIGURES GIVE U. S. 105,708,771

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—The population of the United States on Jan.
1, 1920, as enumerated in the fourteenth census, was 105,708,771. It was announced today by the census bureau.
This was certified to congress as the basis for reapportionment of the members of the house of representatives from the various states.

These figures show a gain of 25,663
over the preliminary figures made public Oct. 7.

Including its outlying possessions,
the population under the government of the United States is 117,857,508.
The outlying possessions totaling 12,147,737.

Yanks in Berlin Suffer When Lid Goes on Adlon

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
BERLIN, Dec. 17.—There was mourning at its bar today when the Hotel Adlon, the last stronghold of demon rum, capitulated before the Hotel Owners' association attacks.
The cafe and restaurant joined in the hotel strike directed against the government for the purpose of easing food restrictions. Hundreds of Americans make mystical double knocks at the cafe's door, but Charlie Jettinger, formerly a cocktail mixer at the Waldorf-

HOUSE TO GAIN 48 MEMBERS BY PLAN OF G. O. P.

Reapportionment to Give Illinois Two More.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(Special.)—Agreement was reached by Republican members of the house in a secret caucus tonight to pass a reapportionment bill at the present session of congress.

The bill probably will increase the size of the house from its present membership of 435 to 453, thereby giving one representative for every 219,000 persons in the United States, instead of one for every 211,400 under the existing law. Illinois would gain two seats, giving it a total of twenty-nine congressmen under this plan.

Would Mean 500 Members.

Increases in population throughout the United States during the last decade would give the house of representatives a total membership of 500 were the present ratio of one representative for each 211,000 persons, or major portion thereof, to be carried out on the basis of the 1920 population.

Republican members voted two to one in favor of passing a reapportionment bill at the present session of congress, increasing the size of the house
from 435 to 483.

Proposal Is Favored.

The proposal that there shall be one representative for each 219,000 persons apparently meets with favor because it will not reduce the size of any state's delegation. States which have made conspicuous growth in the last decade will have their delegations increased in size from one to five members each.
Twenty-five of the forty-eight states in the union will be enlarged. Ohio will gain four seats. California will make the greatest gain of any, with five additional members.

WASHINGTON NEWS

—IN BRIEF—

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.— America is lagging far behind other nations in development of aviation.
Military and naval air defense is inadequate and commercial aviation has scarcely begun.

Democrats refused to join in an agreement to aid Republicans in putting through an emergency tariff bill applying to agricultural products.

The Edmonds bill, relieving delinquent taxpayers of penalties, was reported favorably by the house ways and means committee.

Strong opposition developed in the senate today to the Sheppard bill to appropriate $4,000,000 for protection of maternity and infancy.

Organized labor leaders, aroused by the passage by the senate of the Pin-dexter bill forbidding railroad strikes, called on their friends in congress today to insist upon reconsideration of the measure.

Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, told the ways and means committee that one way to enforce prohibition effectively would be to put a tax of $500 a gallon on whisky.

The senate finance committee concluded hearings on the soldiers' bonus bill today, and there are indications that they will not recommend it for passage at this session.

G. O. P. house members in secret caucus decided to pass a reapportion-
ment bill at the present session of congress, increasing the size of the house
from 435 to 483.

While Governments Talk British Seek Russ Trade

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The protracted negotiations for resumption of trade between Great Britain and soviet Russia are not preventing British manufacturers from taking advantage of the Russian markets. At least two large Yorkshire woolen mills are working at high pressure to turn out orders for hundreds of thousands of yards of textiles for Russian accounts,
it became known here today.

STILL ANOTHER CHAPTER IN ROW ABOUT JUTLAND

British Admiralty Issues Expected Report.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Jutland naval battle dispatches were issued by the admiralty today in the form of a thick book, accompanied by a large case of maps and charts. It does not possess a full account, but contains selected dispatches, which, it is believed, will throw full light on the battle without giving away any secrets. The following digest of the book was made by H. C. Ferraby, a noted British naval expert and author of "The Grand Fleet," and several other books on naval matters.

The outstanding features of the Jutland papers are the fact that the admiralty fully indorsed Admiral Jellicoe's proposed tactics in fleet action before the battle, and that failure of the wireless was the real reason why the German fleet was not found again at daylight.

Signal Is Interrupted.

The captain of the twelfth destroyer flotilla made a wireless signal to Jellicoe at 1:52 a. m., saying, "The enemy battle fleet is steering southeast. My position is ten miles astern the first battle squadron."

"This signal was not received by the battle fleet owing to radio interference. As a result Jellicoe continued to steam southward, while the Germans crossing his track ten miles behind him, made shelter in Horn Reef channel. Had he received that signal, he could have reached Horn Reef at dawn, nearly fifty minutes before the Germans got there."

"The much discussed signal sent by Beatty at the close of the day's fighting now appears in its true light. It was sent at 7:47 p. m. and was not received by Jellicoe until 8:15 p. m. It was not until 8:20 p. m. that the leading battleship, Beatty, in his message, said:

"I submit van battleships follow battle cruisers. We can then cut off the whole enemy fleet."

Order of Jellicoe.

"Jellicoe's reply was sent twenty minutes after he received the suggestion and it was to order the van of the fleet to follow the battle cruisers. But they were out of sight in the gathering darkness and mist and it was not actually until 5:20 the next morning that the battle cruisers again sighted Jellicoe's force."

Y 'KSON RHINE MAY GO HOME, IS CONFERENCE HINT

BRUSSELS, Dec. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Definite progress was made today by the second financial conference toward a solution of the reparations problem and out of the discussion grew the suggestion that the American troops might possibly be recalled from the Rhineland.

Concrete proposals for reparations payments made by the Germans thus far were examined this afternoon by the allied experts in the absence of the German representatives. Some of the likely to be acceptable.

The Germans have said frankly they are ready to make heavy deliveries of goods and render adequate services if details are agreed upon, explaining it would be impossible to pay a cash indemnity without heavy foreign credit.

GREEKS REVEAL SECRET DEALS WITH ENTENTE

BY LARRY RUE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.)
ATHENS, Dec. 17.—Premier George Rallis is preparing a message which King Constantine will read from the balcony of his palace next Sunday. The message will say that Greece's foreign policy has not been changed and that it will remain faithful to the obligations assumed by the previous cabinet. Italy has officially notified Greece that it recognizes Constantine and authorizes Italians to pay all respects and honors due to the sovereign of a friendly country.

Premier Rallis has informed the government is ceasing financial support because of political activities against the present Greek government. The party regarded as being responsible for King Constantine's victory has commenced giving out the heretofore unpublished official documents intended to vindicate the war policies of the king.

The documents, which are marked strictly confidential, partly cover the negotiations with the allies from March 4, 1916, until May 22, 1915. A memorandum from the minister for foreign affairs, dated April 4, states that the king, while outlining his position at a cabinet conference, declared: "I am desirous of entering the war so that the three Greek territories under Turkish rule may be freed and to do away with the Ottoman empire."

The Bulgarian threat of an invasion was regarded as being dangerous and firm guarantees were felt to be necessary to relieve anxiety from that direction. Bulgarian intervention was felt to be inevitable.

Another document disclosed that allied cooperation against the Turks was asked. Also that Greece wished to be in accord with the allies as to territorial concessions safeguarding Greek interests, financial aid, and as to adequate equipment for its army, as well as consideration for the Greek claims to Turkish territory.

A document from the French legation, dated March 4, stated that President Poincaré was regretful that Greece was then neutral when the time and opportunity had come for it to realize its ambitions to extend its possessions. The note contained the assurance that France was desirous of a strong Greece, but that the question of the disposition of Constantinople must be decided after the conclusion of peace.

The minutes of a conversation between the Greek premier and ministers of the triple entente on April 13 show that the English minister's statements that "very important concessions on the coast of Asia Minor" would be given in exchange for Greek participation were defined as meaning Smyrna and a substantial portion of the hinterland.

An Important Selling of 1,000 Pairs of Girls' Boots, $6.95 Pair

Most opportunely comes this selling of girls' boots, for in addition to the consideration of particular economy is that of the desirability of such boots for Christmas gifts. In view of the superior quality of the leathers and the careful workmanship, the pricing is most unusual.

There Are Two Styles—One of Dark Brown Calfskin, the Other of Black Calfskin, with Tops of Kidskin. Two Pairs Are sketched.

The practical feature of these boots makes a very definite appeal to parents. Each last shows careful attention to the details of comfort. There are sizes 2½ to 7 in these boots at $6.95 pair. These boots will not be accepted for credit or refund.

Manufacturers Seized on Charges of Arson

Iadore Friedman of Friedman Bros. & Katz, haberdashery manufacturers at 1608 South Crawford avenue, was locked up at the detective bureau last night on a charge of arson preferred by Fire Attorney John R. McCabe. Max Friedman and Harry Katz, other members of the firm, were arraigned before Judge Caverly yesterday on similar charges. Their cases were continued until Dec. 23.

The arrests followed a fire which almost destroyed the factory and its contents Wednesday night. The firm carried $10,000 insurance. Mrs. Clara Votara, who lived over the factory, identified Iadore Friedman as a man she saw leaving the factory after the fire and called the fire department.

LEGION'S CHIEF ASSAILS BAKER ON "OBJECTORS"

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Three things of interest to ex-service men and women happened here today. They were:

Secretary of War Baker called on National Commander Galbraith of the American Legion for details of charges that while "conscientious objectors" had been freed, there still are many men serving long terms for absence without leave while with the A. E. F.

The war risk insurance bureau sent to congress estimates that it will require $245,000,000 to meet obligations for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1921.

The senate finance committee finished its hearings on the proposal for bonuses for soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses. Probably the committee will wait a canvass on how many want a cash bonus, before taking action on the bill already passed by the house.

Sharp Rebuke for Baker.

The reason for Mr. Baker's action was an article in the American Legion Weekly. It was written by Commander Galbraith and contained statements of this sort: "I am glad that Secretary Baker has released these men (conscientious objectors); glad that he completed the job he started long ago of releasing the men who refused the duty of citizenship who proved untrue to American ideals."

"I am glad he got them off his mind, for they seemed to be his first consideration. I hope that Mr. Baker will now find time to consider the cases of the men who served their country; who went to France to fight and who did not object to serving their country; men who went A. W. O. L. in France and are serving long prison terms as the result of courts martial."

War Risk Bureau's Plans.
Included in the war risk bureau's estimate of $245,000,000 is a request for about $160,000,000 for the sole purpose of paying legal compensation for those ex-service men and women who met death and to those who have suffered disability.

An appropriation of $45,000,000 is asked to continue construction of additional hospital and dispensary facilities, and $50,000,000 is asked for medical and hospital services. Of the total asked $11,000,000 or about 4 per cent, is asked for by Director R. G. Chalmers-Jones for the operation of the bureau.

Status of Bonus Bill.
The senate finance committee will meet tomorrow to decide on its attitude toward the bonus bill. It seems probable that it will favor a poll on the sort of bonus most desired. Such a poll would take several weeks.

Under the cash bonus provisions of the pending bill the men who saw foreign service would receive under the bill $1.25 and those who served in the United States $1 a day for each day of service.

After hearing charges of ill treatment and improper housing of disabled ex-soldiers, 10,000 of whom were reported to be suffering in state hospitals and poorhouses, the house committee on public buildings voted today to report favorably the bill authorizing the government to lease a proposed $3,000,000 hospital to be erected in New York City by the state government.

BLAZE DOES $14,000 DAMAGE.
Damage estimated at $14,000 was caused by a fire in a building at 337-339 LaSalle street early yesterday. Most of the damage was in the upper floors, occupied by the Interstate Highway Service company, manufacturers of sign posts.

SUPREME COURT MAY RULE TODAY ON RIGHEIMER

The Illinois Supreme court has taken under advisement the Cook county election contest case, which involves the right of County Judge Frank S. Righimer to remain in office.

The court, yesterday at Springfield, refused to listen to oral arguments and declined to postpone further arguments of any kind, requested by counsel for Edwin A. Olson, who contends that he was elected in 1918 rather than the late Judge Thomas F. Souly. The court also denied the application of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe to enter the case as "special attorney general on behalf of the people."

That this situation portends a final decision that may be handed down today, or when the court adjourns for the December term, scheduled for this morning, was considered probable. On the other hand, that the court has taken the case under advisement may mean that no word will come from the justices until the close of the February term.

PLUSH Robes

SANFORD MILLS, SANFORD, ME.
Was it Colder in 1867?

Back in our grandparents' days of driving, a robe was always used—good health was too priceless to endanger by going without proper protection. Today, when you speed against the winds in a motor car, either night or day, sunny or stormy, you must have a Robe along to be assured of comfort and no after effects.

Chase Plush Robes have been the choice since 1867.

Doesn't that seem clear?

And moreover

You can't pay more than $50 for a suit in this store and no one else comes anywhere near this value.

Just see what you're buying: Hockanums, French River and Princeton worsteds, hundreds of finest imported cloths—many lined with silk; they're de luxe garments (nothing better in any store), at $50 here.

You'll pay $10 to $20 more for this quality in other stores, if they have such goods at all, even at their cut prices you'll pay $10 to $20 more.

Our low rents and low priced fixtures save you money—we own our shops; you get the middleman's profit. No charge accounts here—no credit losses.

You see why we can give the most sensational values in Chicago.

Regardless of conditions we have saved you $10 to $20 ever since this store opened in June, 1919, and we will continue to save you $10 to $20 on the values in other stores.

Ask us to prove our case to you. Test us. See these great $50 values and others just as great in both suits and overcoats at $25, $35, $40, $45.

RELEASE BOOZE FOR ONE BIG JAG, FORDNEY'S PLAN

Drys Storm Congress to Make Law Stricter.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(Special.)—Three plans for enforcing prohibition in the United States were presented to the house today, two of them by prohibition advocates and the other by Representative Joseph R. Fordney, the committee chairman.

Wayne E. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, suggested a tax of $100 a gallon on the whisky, the mediating of all stocks in bond to render a unit for beverage purposes, and genuine enforcement of the law by at least one federal district attorney.

Prohibition Commissioner John P. Kramer recommended that all liquor now in the government warehouses be concentrated in three or four warehouses in Kentucky, where heavy guards can be placed and illegal withdrawals prevented. He said that 29,000,000 gallons have been withdrawn since Jan. 14, 1920, leaving 40,000,000 gallons in storage.

Representative Fordney said that it might be turned loose by the government, sold to the buyers, and the toppers could have one grand jag and thereby end the trouble and expense for the government.

Mr. Wheeler and Commissioner Kramer insisted the recent decision of the United States Supreme court holding that whisky acquired before the Volstead law was enacted could be taken from storage and moved at the owner's will applied only to the comparatively small stocks purchased for medicinal use and not to the stocks of others.

Plan Had Been Considered. "Don't you think the cheapest way out of this problem for the taxpayers," asked Chairman Fordney, "would be for the government to open the warehouses, let this whisky be sold, and let the toppers have one grand jag and get rid of it all?"

"Yes, that already has been suggested to the bureau," replied Mr. Kramer, "and with Christmas and New Year coming on, considerable pressure has been brought to bear in favor of the proposal, but we haven't been able to see our way clear to do it."

Representative Tilsen, Republican of Connecticut, expressed opposition to extraordinary efforts to enforce the Volstead act in communities in which it was apparent the people were opposed to it.

"HOOT, MON!"

When east meets west perhaps they flirt a bit. J. Jeffrey Grant and Mrs. Glen C. Sheffer, in their costumes as Highlander and oriental princess, as they will appear at Chicago artists' New Year's eve frolic.

THE artists of Chicago invite everybody to their frolic at the Coliseum on New Year's eve. They promise a celebration such as never was held before. From the proceeds they hope to realize a fund with which to start a campaign for an artists' colony in Chicago. The sale of the Tree studio building will make a number of artists homeless and the artists themselves and the friends of art believe that Chicago, which has the largest art school in the world in the Art Institute and boasts a big array of painters, sculptors, poets, writers, and architects should offer them suitable quarters in which to live amid congenial surroundings at a minimum cost.

All the artists will go to the frolic in costume. Everybody else may or may not as they choose. The various artists groups are planning "stunts." The Palette and Chisel club will come en masse as a circus and will give a side

BORELLI DEMANDS ARREST OF PAID "DRY" INFORMERS

Lewinsohn Gets Year; Granted Stay.

Francis Borelli, counsel for Ike Lewinsohn, Chicago saloonkeeper who yesterday was sentenced to one year in jail by Judge Landis, announced last night that he would appear before the judge today to ask the arrest of the four investigators who obtained the evidence against his client.

"The investigators employed by Attorney General Brundage to purchase whisky from my client were not prohibition agents," Mr. Borelli said. "I contend they had no more right to purchase and drink liquor than the ordinary citizen. The same thing is true of the men who purchased liquor at the saloon after the federal writ had been served. These men should be arrested on charges of violating the prohibition laws."

Judge George T. Page in the Circuit Court of Appeals saved Lewinsohn's sentence pending an appeal, and the saloon man was released on bonds. Attorney Borelli contended the injunction writ was insufficient and unconstitutional.

Courtroom repentances and tears proved a poor defense for Lewinsohn when he appeared before Judge Landis charged with violating an order restraining him from conducting a public nuisance. He was still crying when the marshals led him from the room. Mrs. Isaac Lewinsohn, wife of the saloonkeeper, fainted when her plea for clemency for her husband was refused. Previously she had forced her way to the railing in front of the judge and begged him not to send her husband to jail.

LABOR AGITATED BY HANDWRITING ON STRIKE WALL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(Special.)—Aroused by the senate's unexpected passage of the Feindefelder bill forbidding railroad strikes, leaders of organized labor today called upon their friends in congress to unite to bring about a reconsideration of the anti-strike measure and resist other legislative blows which may be aimed at union labor.

A conference of senators and representatives and heads of various labor organizations, particularly the railroad brotherhoods, was held in International Machinery building. Labor leaders fear they are in for a hard fight to prevent big manufacturers from breaking up the "closed shop."

They are also fearful of other measures to prevent strikes in other industries. Indications are that the senate will vote to reconsider the Feindefelder bill.

THE PHILIPPINES, JAPAN AND THE NAVAL LOOPHOLE.

Representative Frear, in a house debate on disposal of the Philippines, quotes Roosevelt as having said in 1915:

"The Philippines from a military standpoint are a source of weakness to us. The present administration has promised explicitly to let them go and by its action has rendered it difficult to hold them against any serious foreign foe. These being the circumstances, the islands should at an early moment be given their independence without any guaranty whatever by us and without our retaining any foothold in them."

It seems to THE TRIBUNE, is sound judgment, and should be followed by congress. The Philippines doubtless would like us to guaranty them against conquest or control. We are in no way obligated to do so. The islands and their people have enjoyed very great benefits from American control, but the Philippine people, or their leaders, wish to be independent. Independence is independence. The Philippines cannot eat the cake and keep it, too. We should be very foolish to let Messrs. Quezon and company call the tune while Uncle Sam pays the piper.

In fact, having done a good job without compensation, we ought to be glad to get out. As Col.
Roosevelt said, and as we have pointed out in recent editorials, the Philippines are a heavy responsibility and bound to grow heavier. While we remain, native politics will turn against us and sentimental outcries will confuse American issues, which are sufficiently perplexed by foreign questions without that of the Philippines. Strategically they are worse off for the defense of the islands than when Roosevelt spoke, for the war has placed a gordon of Japanese islands between us.

We believe our unreserved departure from the Philippines will assist the Japanese government to come to a satisfactory agreement as to a limitation of naval armament. Aside from the question of eventual absorption of the Philippines into the Japanese empire, which seems to us their probable if not their manifest destiny, we cannot deny that the islands from the Japanese viewpoint are a base for hostile operations on their flank. While they are from our viewpoint, that is from the defensive standpoint, a liability or responsibility without much compensation, if, as the Japanese pretend to or actually do fear, we have offensive intentions, we might use the islands as a base for most destructive warfare against Japan. Especially, if we were allied with Australia, they might be very effectively used as a spearpoint.

Our withdrawal, therefore, would remove one element of strain in Japanese-American relations and emphasize the fact that we have no territorial or aggressive military intentions which invade the Japanese sphere.

We believe also that negotiations for a naval holiday with Japan and Great Britain may be very profitably broadened to include a general understanding as to policies and interests. Unless Japan is carried away by a military conception of aggrandizement and has a dangerously inadequate sense of the forces she will encounter if she embarks on an offensive campaign, it should not be impossible to agree upon a modus vivendi which, if faithfully adhered to, would assure the peace of the Pacific for a long period. Our own irreducible minimum does not seem to us to infringe upon Japan's essential requirements for growth. For example, one item is Hawaii. This we cannot recede from. Our policy is and will remain defensive, and Hawaii is too important an element of our defense to be surrendered. No growth of the Japanese population in these islands can be permitted to serve as a basis for Japanese claims to possession. There should be an explicit understanding on this subject.

The so-called racial equality issue should also be raised out of its ambiguity. We do not propose to permit the Japanization of our Pacific coast states. This is not a matter of theory. It is a matter of fact. We believe the Japanese are using the issue for other purposes at present. Treaty commitments and euphemisms like the gentlemen's agreement should be got rid of. We have nothing to gain by them. The Japanese may have.

Discussions in amplification of the Lansing-Ishii agreement and of the Monroe doctrine, and a definition of rights as to trade and development in China, Siberia, and Latin America might clear the air considerably and save both countries from the unexpected crises to which uncertainty of policy gives rise.

An agreement as to naval construction is, however, a practical and, we believe, attainable object, which, apart from any of the possibilities of wider agreement, would relieve Japanese-American relations of the present acute strain.

Japan refuses it will be our duty to make proper preparations for the conflict to which she has elected to go forward.

Ready should be preparations on such a scale as would leave no doubt of the result of the conflict.

SLACKERS STILL ESCAPING.

Officers of the American Legion perform an important public service in asking a congressional inquiry of their charge that the war department has done nothing but promise prosecution of draft evaders and deserters.

There are said to be over 150,000 of these offenders. It is of great moment that they should not escape punishment under the law. The war department may be tired of the war, and so may be the American people, but if there is to be any respect for law, or justice, or patriotism, the shirkers who defied the law in 1917 and saved their skins should not be allowed to get away with it.

Naturally the Legion is especially alive to this issue, but the country really is not indifferent. It simply does not realize that the shirkers have not been punished. A congressional airing should get results.

BREAKING OUT OF THE LOOP.

This city may date the beginning of its real life day progress from the time it succeeds in breaking out of the loop. That may be the organic remedy, and all others, such as prohibition of parking, rerouting of cars, etc., merely palliatives.

The Michigan boulevard link is an out, a break through the restrictive grid. The Drake hotel went north, and hotels, theaters, fine shops, and stores will follow.

The announced project for a $5,000,000 hotel
opposite the new Union station is another break and to the west. This hotel, which will front Jackson boulevard, lying between Canal and Clinton streets, should, with the new railroad terminal, reclaim and revive a whole district.

If the big projects of building, which involve large spending of money in building and large spending of money in maintenance, can find places outside the loop, they will spread the spending of money outside, and the artificial restriction which has congested the city will be removed. The Tribune congratulates itself that it went north with its new plan.

When the artificial barriers have been broken down the circulation of the city will be restored.

THE LEGAL LOOPHOLE.

Gene Geary killed a man and was acquitted. The prosecutor said he would soon kill another, and he did. Before he killed his first man he had been suspected of connection with other killings. What we call his first one was the first one in which he was caught red handed. There was no question about it.

His second killing was a nice, clean piece of gunman murder. There was a story that Geary had been sent after the victim. We do not know whether that ever was substantiated or not. The surface facts were that he encountered a man he did not know and killed him because he, drunk, wanted to kill some one. The victim's companion had a narrow escape. Geary was about to kill him also.

Geary was to have been hanged yesterday morning, but he had only been in the death cell four hours when an assistant jailer was able to go to him and tell him he could go back to his old cell.
There would be no hanging in the morning. The state supreme court had granted a writ of superse-dende to enable his attorneys to take an appeal to the court.

With the legal elements involved a layman can have only an ignorant opinion. A method of review by the supreme court is provided and the processes of law are supposed to be open to all persons in jeopardy. Upon other features of the case a lay opinion is as good as a lawyer's.

Doubt of the guilt of Geary does not exist. If Geary should escape and any other man be hanged in Cook county for twenty years it would be an injustice to the other man. His character, his acts, his history, his purpose, and his crimes were all consistent. Purpose and acts led directly to murder.
He was known as a murderer.

The governor refused to grant him a stay of sentence for an appeal. Mr. Lowden knew that there was nothing to appeal and he declined to permit the moral and social consequences which would result from what the people must regard as an other breakdown of justice.

Regardless of what it is, the effect is that of a breakdown. Criminals think it is another proof of impunity. Citizens think it is another proof of futility. The social consequences are as bad as they can be and they persuade citizens that law is the loophole of the lawless.

Editorial of the Day

CRIME AND THE MOVIES.

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.]

One does not need perhaps to refer to the current cases of boy criminals to see how ways of satisfying the craving for an easy living in luxurious surroundings, gained by a life of criminal adventures, may be suggested by films that present the criminal in a false light. We have just had a striking instance of what might be called, for want of a better term, a "movie crime," in which the actors seem to view their hideous act as if they had done something of which to be proud.
Although the crime was without that excuse that great passions and great wrongs sometimes have given, even murder in the past, yet there has been the hypocritical effort to invest all concerned with the glamour of adventure and the woman in the case with a sympathy that nothing in her record justifies. It is this kind of thing that the movies that exploit crime promote; and that there are movies of this kind can easily be ascertained by stepping outside the censored boundaries of Pennsylvania, where there will be no such burlary and murder condoned and explained away on the ground that the offenders didn't have a chance at home or out in the world.

The movies have taken the place of sensational fiction to a degree that is beyond all possible exaggeration by reason of the indefinite multiplicity of the film and the instantaneity of the silent drama. They reach into all classes and to greater numbers than any book ever printed; and therefore their great value and also their power of evil. If, therefore, the Pennsylvania censors keep this kind of pictured fiction crime away from the millions who go to the movies and the authorities do all they can to remove the glamour from the flashy offenders who like the limelight, even if it be found in a police cell, the suggestive appeal to imitation will not have the opportunity to move those who are easily led.

IT SEEMS LONG TO WAIT.

[From the New York Times.]

To forecast the weather for long periods ahead has been the hope rather than the expectation of real meteorologists. Quackish prophets, of course, long have undertaken the task with confidence, and their predictions, whether based on conjunctions of the planets or on wishbones, muskrat houses, or the honks of squirrels, have received the serious consideration of the credulous. When the prophecies thus founded have chanced to be fulfilled, great has been the boasting of the makers and their devotees, but the more numerous failures have passed unnoticed.

Our own weather bureau attempts no long distance forecast, rarely venturing an opinion extending beyond one day ahead. But now a man who is not a wishbone prophet expresses the belief that observations of the sun, if made carefully enough, and continuously for fifty or a hundred years, may render possible trustworthy forecasts as to general weather conditions for a whole twelve months to come! He is R.
M. Stewart, assistant director of the Dominion observatory, and therefore beyond suspicion of entertaining peasant superstitions or of calling moons wet or dry according to their inclination from the horizontal.

The idea that the sun controls the weather—that terrestrial storms and solar "spots" are somehow connected—is an old one, but the influence, though long held probable, is subjected to so many disturbances and diversions that no practical results have followed. As the Canadian savant says, such results may come in time, and they will be worth having, though there isn't even a chance that they ever will help in deciding which hat or coat to wear when starting downtown in the morning.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to do this, let the quips fall where they may.

MORNING IN IOWA.
A cold, rough, gloomy morning!
Gaiety yellow stains the smoke
Of neighbors' chimneys stains the air,
Reminding me that you grim, white-capped cone,
Which like a second Reimer stands in my backyard.

Like him of ash and cinders built, now calls
For more upbuilding. That white bloom
Which last night's snow left upon His smooth and careful sides must not Be sickled o'er with more and yet more Ashes.

What's that I smell—buckwheat?
And what's his name's pig sausage?
Is it? Ah!
Gee, what a peach of a morning!

THE two stonies in the L coach were discussing the opera. "I see," said one, "that they're going to sing 'Flagstaff.' That's Verdi's latest opera," said the other. "Yes," contributed the gentleman in the adjacent seat, leaning forward; "and the scene is laid in Arizona."

"AND THAT'S THAT!"
[From the Quincy Herald.]
I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by my wife, Florence Hintz.

Albert Hintz advertises he will not be responsible for any debts contracted by his wife.

Editor Tribune: Through the columns of your paper, I wish to say that the article about my husband is not true, but only lies made up by some one of several much worse than Tedeson. We were a little one in a while, but when it comes to fighting that is not true. Of course Tedon dries. Everyone knows that, but it is his affair and concerns no one else.

Tedeson is concerned, I presume, in full of it.
It looks as if you people who are always knocking Tedon, would give White Mule, Lemon extra, and a good dose of Bismarck, Iron Wine, and Nitro more attention. A great many would be happier.

THE POPOCATAPETL OF APOLOGY.
[From the Kearney, Neb., Hub.]

In making mention of the court calendar in the Hub yesterday, the transportation of a line made it appear that William Moody was charged with murder, whereas Harvey Graham was intended. The charge against Moody was burglary. A part of a page was "pled" just at going to press, and the transportation was unnecessarily made in rearranging the type lines for the form. The Hub makes this correction with a sincere apology.

PRESENCE OF MIND OF P. HANS FLATH.
[From the Wichita Eagle.]

One young lady in the first row at the Palace theater, Monday afternoon, became so absorbed in watching Charles Ray she lost her equilibrium. At last night's performance she fell from her seat, for she laid down from the seat, upon the brass railing and alighted on the organ pit, all on her own initiative. P. Hans Flath grappled the situation and played some very loud music.

FELLAGRA OFTEN COMES AGAIN.

W. C. D. writes: "In the summer of 1911 I noticed that my hands were apparently suppurated, my mouth sore from lips to throat, my bowels and stomach disordered. Then dark red spots came on my arms like birth marks. I was terribly despondent and nervous. A doctor told me I had pellagra and prescribed small doses of calcium sulphide and Fowler's solution, with a diet. The bowel condition grew rapidly worse and, with my doctor's consent, I began to use enemas of warm salt water, taking about two quarts at a time, with a teaspoonful of more salt to the quart. The effect was immediately beneficial, and I am sure it saved my life. I used the enemas twice a day for a week, then every day for about four months, and twice a week for another year. Now I use them occasionally. My improvement was steady and I now have no symptoms except a lack of energy, which may be due largely to other causes, such as grief and the approach of old age—I am fifty-four."

"I cannot believe that the disease is due to malnutrition, for I know of several very robust, strong men it has attacked. The diseased corn theory seems more reasonable."

REPLY.
Several years ago the theory that pellagra was spread by the buffalo fly or deer fly, simuliid, was frequently advanced. We hear little of the theory now. The best hope has been of nearly everything but nobody has convinced him of any disease cure. It was a case of pellagra in the family. We could have something on him more people would be interested in having him. It is a case of pellagra in the family. We could have something on him more people would be interested in having him.

Sherwood Anderson's "Poor White"

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

HERE is an effort being made to create a cult for Sherwood Anderson. It is evidenced in the awed manner in which critics speak of him. His publisher (Huebsch) comments upon his work with superlative appreciation. On the cover of "Poor White," Anderson's latest book, appears this ejaculation: "If, as the critics have said, Anderson's 'Wine-burg Ohio' marks the point of our literary adolescence, 'Poor White' testifies to our artistic majority."

"Our literary majority" means—if it means anything—the literary majority of the United States. Such a momentous event surely should not pass without a blowing of golden trumpets, and no one of all the readers or reviewers in the country would blow with more gusto than I, could I accede to this claim.

But in "Poor White" I see a novel of abortive power, telling with a certain limited lucidity the story of a Mississippi river boy, gangling, dull, ignorant, somnolent, nagged into wakefulness by a little motherly New England woman, and then, leaving behind him the torpor and the mud flats of his native town, going out into the world to make a man of himself. He nurses in his dull yet tense personality the power of an inventor, and under propitious circumstances this power develops and Hugh McVey becomes a successful man. His ability is the means of turning a placid little Ohio town into a thundering industrial city. And the limitations of his power leave him at last, rejected by the very forces of which he has been the unwitting creator. His mind has been worked. The iron world in which he had for a time been a bewildered yet powerful factor rejects him. He does not mind. He submits with a torpid philosophy. He has, moreover, his compensations. But interesting and vital as this is, it is presented with a determined vitality which, to my mind, defeats the very verisimilitude which it was intended to create. The world of bar-borous, dull, greedy men and women fretted with monstrous inhibitions, whom Anderson depicts, seem really but little removed from the mound-builders. Each new impact of experience hits them like a bludgeon. The approaches of sex are shattering and hideous. No hint of love, as civilized men and women know it, mitigates the ferocity of this primordial love making. No gleam of idealism throws its rays into this curious cave-like existence where these men and women writhe together like serpents, stinging each other with unaccountable venom. If I were not acquainted with the kind of people who made Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, Mr. Anderson might fool me. I might believe that their actions and reactions were brutal and dull, bewildered and violent. But I do know them. I know the idealism they possessed from the first, and the vision they had; I know their pleasant hospitalities, their passion for education, and I know that Mr. Anderson has grotesquely, egregiously, and egotistically exaggerated their ignorances and stupidities.

Meet Earl Reed

Writer and Etcher

In Our Book Section

HE WILL greet his numerous friends and admirers today from 10:30 to 4, when he will inscribe books intended as gifts, and—if the spirit move him—add some sketches.

Those familiar with the beauties of our neighboring dunes will be glad to meet the man who has made them known all over the land through his charming tales and exquisite etchings.

Mr. Reed's beautiful books, containing illustrations made by himself, are well known to thousands of readers. They are full of the love of nature, rare character studies, dry humor and gentle philosophy. "Tales of a Vanishing River," "Sketches in Dune Land," "The Voices of the Dunes" and his other books, will be on hand for autographing.

Mr. Reed gives the opportunity for acquiring a unique gift as a present to a friend.

Those who call at the Book Section will also have the opportunity of examining a world of literature from which to select holiday gifts that will please any taste or idiosyncrasy. Everything is grouped for ready examination and easy selection.

Book Section, Third Floor.

WANT TO BE A "SUCCESS"?

One hundred and sixty present day men of achievement unite to present quite personal sum-ups of their own lives in "Tales of Success" (Viv Publishing Co., Philadelphia). A book of inspiration for young men. The compilation of this lively book requires no light task, and the secrets of success as disclosed by the country's greatest authors, cartoonists, business men, educators, inventors—make no dull reading. Chicago is represented by J. Ogden Armour, Judge Jesse A. Baldwin, R. B. Benjamin, the Rev. A. C. Dixon, E. A. Bokhart, David R. Forgan, Alexander H. Revell, Louis F. Swift, Thomas E. Wilson, and others. The text of the book might be "hard work," and the advice in a lump is "try to find out what you can do best, and then do it all the time." W. Y.

AN ENGLISH WIFE IN BERLIN

By EVELYN PRINCESS BLUCHER

The Boston Transcript calls it—
"So far the most revealing and absorbing personal record. These pages are filled with personal touches that flash with a vivid and realistic impression of the experience . . . a thrilling and amazing record."

The New York Evening Post says—
"Almost alone of the chronicles that have come out of the enemy country, her diary presents a portrayal of events that is neither enveloped by partisanship nor warped by propagandist intention. Informal, racy of the moment, lively in mingling of personal incident with political happening, it reflects with unconscious dramatic quality the development of the German catastrophe and the aftermath of disaster."

The New York World—
"Unique among books of late wartime experience and of an interest and pathos entitling it to a permanent place in the literature of the world conflict."

The Richmond News Leader—
"To begin it is to be lured on and on, in growing excitement and sympathy. . . . If originality, poise, dramatic interest, a compelling style and historical importance were the components of a best seller it would be discussed this winter in every drawing-room. It is certainly one of the most fascinating books of the year."

The San Francisco Argonaut—
"Perhaps the only volume of its kind that throws so much light upon the internal state of Germany during the war."

Price $6.00. It should be on sale at your bookstore; if not, it can be had from E. P. DUTTON & CO., 681 Fifth Avenue, New York

RUSSIA HAS NO COMMUNISTS; ALL CAPITALISTS'

Lincoln Steffens Tells of Soviet Dream.

Lincoln Steffens, pioneer of the muckrakers, who lately has been assisting in the Russian ship of state, through the shoals of revolution to the promised land, told the members of the City club yesterday about the progress of the soviet government.

"Don't pass judgment on the bolsheviks now," he pleaded. "In Russia they think they are laying the foundations for a new civilization."

Lincoln Steffens, (Am. Press Assn.) is to judge in three or four general cases. With one sweep they destroyed the old order of things. They cannot build a new structure in a day, but they have a plan and they are working along it scientifically.

"Lenin Expects Assassination."

"They are aware of the problems that face them, they admit failure in many cases, but in time they expect to solve all questions. It is not a question of men; it is system. Lenin could go now—he himself says he is due for assassination—yet there are about him able men who would step into his place and carry on."

"In Russia now there are no democrats, no capitalists, only capitalists, for the people have taken over all the sources of wealth. The first command will be the children of today. Upon them the leaders rely to carry on the plan."

The ultimate plan, Mr. Steffens said, is a proletarian dictatorship. Under this every man and woman will be obligated to perform so many hours' labor a day—three or four, as may be necessary to produce all that the people need without excess to any one. In return each will receive a labor card to be exchanged for that which he needs or desires from the general production.

The New Russian Religion.

Touching on religion and marriage as practiced by the bolsheviks, Mr. Steffens said there is religious freedom. The churches are open and those who wish to worship therein are welcome, but over each door has been written, "Religion is a dope."

Marriage consists simply in the two contracting parties going before the nearest civil authority and registering. Divorce is even simpler. Only one of the parties, if dissatisfied with the bargain, need return to the civil authority and declare the contract off. If there are children to the disrupted union the state will gladly assume responsibility for their rearing.

OAK PARK GETS NEW POLICE.

Two new patrolmen were appointed by Chief of Police Peter H. Riecke of the Oak Park police department yesterday. This will increase the complement of the suburban department to thirty-eight men.

$17,000,000? IT IS ENOUGH TO GET ALDERMEN'S GOAT

Want State to Show How to Get It.

The city council finance committee at its meeting yesterday made it clear that its members believe it is up to the state legislature to tell them where they will obtain $17,862,000 in new revenue during 1921 before making up a budget for next year.

Departmental estimates of money needed to run the city government next year is, in round numbers, $42,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000 over 1920.

Only $30,000,000 in Sight.

The estimated revenue for 1921 is put at $3,832,637, which excludes approximately $410,000, which the city has refused to accept from the Chicago Telephone company in fear of jeopardizing its further claims against the company for compensation.

A deficit of $302,500 was carried over from 1919. The deficit for 1920 will be approximately $5,862,377 on Dec. 31. To take care of this deficit and the $42,000,000 proposed, a budget of $47,000,000 is needed, and with only $30,000,000 revenue in sight the finance committee members are in a quandary.

Refuses to Act Blindly.

Chairman John A. Richard put the issue up to the committee yesterday afternoon.

"I won't work on any budget for 1921 until I know what relief the city will get from the legislature," said Ald. A. A. McCormick. "We may get all the money needed but the legislature may refuse to do anything and tell us to run the city on the revenue we have."

CHURCH FAILS, SAYS PASTOR FOR 22 YEARS; QUILTS

After twenty-two years in the ministry of the Rev. Frank E. R. Miller, pastor of First Baptist church at Fifth street, near Drexel boulevard, has resigned, to embark on a business career. His experience as an army chaplain at Camp Grant, he says, convinced him the church has not performed its functions, that educational institutions have superseded the church as centers of culture, and that he can no longer reconcile himself to the artificialities and formalities of an orthodox religion.

"Any arbitrary doctrine only tends to produce a profession, which is a mere sham and pretense," he said. "I felt, too, that as a whole the church has not performed its functions. It has been unable to allay human passions stirred up by the world war. It is unable to prevent wars. With all its ministrations, it has brought about no tangible results."

"The clergyman is more or less of a recluse. At Camp Grant I was confronted by the actualities of life. Problems the church could not and did not touch. Since then I have lost interest in my pastorate."

WOMAN, 74, BURNED.

Mrs. Clara Koetter, 74 years old, 3208 Eastwood avenue, was burned on the right side when her clothing caught fire from a stove yesterday.

FARMERS STUDY HOW TRADE BOARD AFFECTS PRICES

Present Grain Market Has Been Called Ideal.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Practices in the grain exchanges are one absorbing phase of the marketing problem which the Committee of Seven is trying to solve for the farmer. Consumer as well as producer has an interest at stake. The seventeen are making a real study of the economics of the grain trade in contrast with the aliphed fumblings of some theorists who in times past have muddled the public with a home brew of fallacy mixed with truth.

For years it has been a custom as prices jump up or down for some statesman to arise at Washington and in his best oratorical voice lay it on the board of trade. Up or down, coming or going, the board has been a handy scapegoat.

A Case in Point.

To illustrate: A year or two before the war charges were made in congress that Kansas farmers were not getting as much as they should for their grain, and that tinkering by the grain exchanges was to blame for low prices. The department of agriculture investigated, and on Oct. 24, 1914, Secretary Houston reported back to congress, saying, "Since margins of profit taken by the grain dealers in the larger markets are very small (averaging about 1 cent a bushel) it appears the farmers of Kansas as a general rule are obtaining all their wheat is worth."

In 1917 prices were up and congress ordered the federal trade commission to investigate the grain marketing machinery because grains were high in the markets and complaints were coming in from consumers and employers of labor. The inquiry has been in progress for three years and a half, and the results are not even yet available.

Prices Down Again Now.

New prices are down; farm crops have registered a drop of nearly $5,000,000,000 from the high value of last year, and some statesmen are proclaiming that trading in futures on the grain exchanges takes money out of the farmers' pockets.

As against the lambastings given the grain exchanges, we find Herbert Hoover, who surely should be able to qualify as an expert, telling a congressional committee that the Chicago board of trade is "the most economical agency in the world for the distribution of foodstuffs." And Julius H. Barnes, who was president of the United States Grain corporation, says "the American market system, with the insurance of its future hedging trading, preserves the most favorable relation of producer price to consumer price to be seen anywhere in the world."

Contrary to a widespread belief, the

JEALOUS LOVER SHOTS WIDOW SWEETHEART, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

The love affair of John Novak, boiler-maker, and Mrs. Marie Kolman, a widow, at their home at 2825 South Spaulding avenue, had seen many stormy interludes during the past few months. Novak was jealous.

MRS. MARIE KOLMAN.

Thursday he bought a revolver. Yesterday he shot his sweetheart through the head, then blew out his brains. The woman, taken to St. Anthony's hospital, has a good chance to recover. According to her story, Novak had asked her to marry him before Christmas. She refused, she said, whereupon Novak grew angry.

Mrs. Kolman has three children, Anna, 20 years old; Sylvia, 19 years old, and Charlie, 14 years old. The father, Anton, has been dead three years. Friends of Novak declared he had a wife and five children living in another quarter of the city.

Board of Trade does not fix prices. It does not set the price at which private individuals have bought or sold grain. It does no trading. What it does is to furnish a market place where buyers and sellers may come together to transact business. It sets up rules, and the trading is done by individual contract between private parties in the open market under these rules.

Based on Cash Trading.

The foundation of the exchange is the "cash" grain business—the actual grain which is sold by sample on the floor. Its true purpose is to make a market for the crops so broad and continuous that any amount of grain, cash or futures, can be sold at any time, and also to distribute the crops from producer to manufacturer at minimum cost.

The futures system—the trading in products for future delivery—is, perhaps, the feature most criticized and least understood. This system was inaugurated by the Chicago Board of Trade some fifty years ago. Outside the American exchanges, Winnipeg is the only market having a similar practice. Future trading is of two kinds, speculative and hedging, the latter being a species of insurance by which the miller, exporter, elevator man, or other buyer is protected against loss through price fluctuations.

In general, students of marketing systems recognize the economic value of hedging facilities. But as to the value of the speculative trade and its effect upon prices they widely differ in opinion. Right there is the meat of the problem. The critics say it is an aid to manipulation.

Defense of Speculation.

The exchanges maintain that the speculative end plays an important part in keeping distribution costs down. It forms a cushion for the entire market, absorbing much of the shock. Under the system there is always somebody ready to buy or sell, which makes the market continuous.

Through "hedging," too, the speculator, they argue, becomes the underwriter against loss of the miller or the elevator man. This reduction of financial hazard makes credit easier to get and reduces the capital investment necessary to handle the business of grain handling and this, in turn, widens competition and keeps the market open.

Mr. Barnes says "trade tolls between producer and consumer are unusually narrow on grain, as against other standard marketable commodities." In this connection the report of Secretary Houston, already referred to, showed that, outside of freight, the handling charge of the middlemen between farmer and manufacturer was not over 10 per cent.

(In the next article Mr. Evans will deal with the operations of the "hedging" system.)

GIRL'S LOVE FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL BALKS FATHER

Little Miss Kathryn Kuhn would rather lose the advantages offered her in a home with her father, Dr. Leroy Philip Kuhn, wealthy physician, than be deprived of the opportunity of attending a certain Sunday school in Evanston.

"Even when her father suggested that she spend the week-end at his home—Kathryn's mother died ten years ago, when she was a baby—instead of with me," Mrs. Ada Weeks, her aunt, told Judge Roman yesterday, "she cried and said she'd rather not, because it would make her miss her Sunday school."

This is the principal reason why Dr. Kuhn and his sister, Mrs. Weeks, are now waging a legal fight over the girl's custody. The physician recently filed a writ of habeas corpus demanding the child. Mrs. Weeks contends that because she has mothered the girl for ten years it is unfair now to take her from the Weeks home.

Mrs. Weeks is the wife of an Episcopalian minister. Dr. Walter C. Scott, pastor of the Sheridan Road Methodist church, was one of the character witnesses introduced by Dr. Kuhn to prove his fitness to take care of his daughter.

HERE COMES THE PREDICTED CUT IN BUNGALOWS

BY AL CHASE.

Here's the latest bulletin of cheer for the worn and weary homeseeker—work is going to start Jan. 1 on 100 bungalows of five, six, and seven rooms each on the northwest side.

That sounds pretty good, eh? But listen to this: Owing to the reduced cost of building material, the builder, Fred Buck, predicts he'll be able to sell them at from $5,500 to $6,100 each. With seven room bungalows selling around prices so much higher than these that it gives the ordinary homeseeker a nervous breakdown to even think about them. Mr. Buck's comments are expected to cause considerable buying activity.

Sale Discloses Project. His plans leaked out yesterday when he purchased twenty-seven acres in Addison street, 445-foot east of Central avenue, from Herman T. Becker. According to the Torrens system transfer, the price was $49,000. Mr. Buck already owned thirty-six acres in this neighborhood giving him fifty-three acres in all.

His largest holding is the four block tract, bounded by Addison, Long, Roscoe, and Linden. Sixteen acres of his property has streets opened, sewers in, and material for 100 houses on the ground. According to Niels Buck, architect, nothing is in sight to prevent work from starting on Jan. 1. Work will begin at once on grading streets in the next twenty-acre tract.

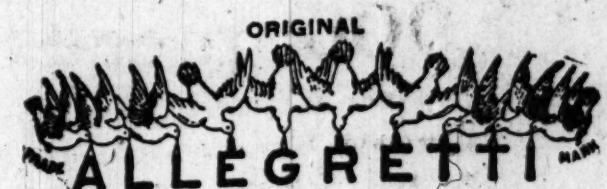

Erie-Franklin Building Sold. Alexander Bauer has purchased the seven story Erie-Franklin building, at the southeast corner of Erie and Franklin streets, from Martha Wilson, John P. Wilson Jr., and Anne W. Dickinson. The trustees, for a reported $160,000. The building recently was bought by John P. Wilson Sr. and has been held by the three trustees mentioned. The property is 102x112. The two principal tenants are Channon & Co. and the Stromberg Electric company. Hall & Ellis represented all parties. Mr. Bauer owns considerable other property in this district.

The twenty-seven apartment building at Fifty-first street and Forrestville avenue, lot 52x71, has been sold by John B. King to Robert W. Blair, through George W. Stewart, subject to $52,000, the seller taking in exchange a 2,400-acre farm near Rhineland, Wis.

H. W. SEYMOUR, NOTED CHICAGO EDITOR, IS DEAD

Horatio Winslow Seymour, editorial writer for the New York World, veteran Chicago newspaper man and one of the best known of the older journalists in the United States, died yesterday at his home, 510 West End avenue, New York. Mr. Seymour was a brilliant and masterful writer on economic questions. He was born in Cayuga county, New York, in 1854, and was educated in the public schools of Racine, Wis., where he learned the printer's trade. He took the composing stick for the local room of the Racine Advocate and Journal, later going to the Milwaukee News, where he served as reporter, city editor, and news editor. His work attracted the attention of Wilbur F.

"The Riverside Poet," which had its premiere last night, will be given this afternoon and evening in the Town hall of Riverside. The entertainment is for the benefit of Riverside post of the American Legion.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A stag will be given by the Treadwell club, 13th engineers, in drill hall, Masonic temple, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Story, then owner of the Chicago Times.

He became telegraph editor of the Times in 1873 and four years later became night editor. It was while on the Times that he wrote that now famous headline "Jerred to Jesus" on a story describing the hanging of a Negro who became a religious fanatic shortly before he mounted the scaffold. In 1887 he went to the old Chicago Herald, then in its infancy, where he served as editorial writer, managing editor, and editor until 1895. His editorials made him famous as an expert on the tariff.

Mr. Seymour left the Herald in 1895 to become editor and publisher of the Chronicle, John R. Walsh's paper, where he remained until 1907, when he became editorial supervisor of the New York World.

UNIONS' FEARS OF STATE POLICE SEEM NEEDLESS

Illinois Bill Bars Them from Strikes.

The cost of military service in Illinois within one period of twelve months was as follows:

Chicago race riots ..... $378,468

Puerto strike ..... 19,323

Newman strike ..... 19,273

Madison Park tornado ..... 5,754

Total ..... $422,818

It is not suggested that any of this expense would have been saved if Illinois had a state police force. The bill presented to the last general assembly prohibited state police from entering upon riot duty unless ordered by the governor at the request of the mayor, sheriff, or other local authority, such as the commission of a crime, or the commission of a crime, or the commission of a crime.

Such a provision is to be found in the law creating the state police of several states. The purpose apparently was to limit the activity of the police to the prevention and suppression of crime.

Certain union labor leaders, however, oppose state police because they look upon it as a strike breaking agency.

They point to the fact that the militia of Pennsylvania has been called out only once in the fifteen years of the state police.

Case of Massachusetts.

In the state fight for and against state police seldom has the fact been referred to that the Massachusetts militia was not called out to preserve order between 1879, when the district police were created, until the Lawrence strike in 1913. Yet a legislative investigating committee of that state said in 1917 that the district police "is beyond doubt the weakest and most inefficient unit among the police organization of the commonwealth."

That committee recommended state police for Massachusetts.

There is enough crime in the rural districts, small villages, and cities to keep a state police force busy without rushing unasked and unwanted into industrial disputes.

Tax Tribune correspondent at Marion, in Williamson county, part of the southern Illinois coal field, says regarding the last six months:

"We have had murders, bank robberies, and a full carnival of crime."

From Kanawha county, the home district of Governor Eliot Small, came a list of sixteen crimes. In the last year the name of Bryant Caudill, who was charged when arrested with threatening to kill Mr. Small. He was

PURSES OPEN TO STARVING LITTLE ONES OF EUROPE

Chicago has opened its heart to the starving children of Europe. From every part and every social stratum of the city contributions ranging from $1 to $50,000 are pouring in upon Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Illinois treasurer for the European relief council.

The "Invisible Guest"—the unheralded, famished, pinched child fighting for life in the war broken districts of central and eastern Europe—is going to sit 100,000 strong at Chicago's Christmas board. Herbert Hoover's appeal to save a generation of babies from starvation has fired the city's school children, working men, merchants, financiers into a common impulse to give.

Thousands of the smaller gifts received by Gen. Dawes at his office in the Central Trust company represent the Christmas sacrifices of school children. At Mooseheart, Ill., the children have formed a Hoovering club and are going without their dinner once a week. The money thus saved is being sent to Gen. Dawes.

A. A. Carpenter, Illinois chairman of the state capital during the last six months, said yesterday that the city's response to the appeal for Europe's unfortunate little ones has been phenomenal.

sentenced to the penitentiary for stealing an auto.

This is a case wherein the Chicago police were credited with apprehending the offender.

The "most important crime" in the state capital during the last six months was the plot to wreck the Diamond special of the Illinois Central railroad.

The correspondent writes: "That is another case where outside aid collected the evidence."

Omitting the crimes committed within the shadow of the capitol dome the correspondent writes:

"The most serious crime from the surrounding rural districts was an attack made on Mary Strode, living on the Peoria road north of Springfield. The assailant was a Negro, who escaped after severely beating the woman."

Catch a "Badman."

"The period opened with the sensational death of Jack Finn, alias Ernest Sydenreiter, who was mortally wounded in a fight with the police at Virren after he had successfully staged a number of holdups in central Illinois towns, including several in Springfield."

"July was notable for the number of automobiles stolen in rural districts. In Pawnee, Virginia, Buffalo, Chatham, and other towns around. Box car thieves became active in August and pickpockets made their annual invasion of Springfield during the state fair."

Famous Vitonola Phonographs in Six

Leading Models

At Half and Less Than Half What Every Other Store in America Asks This Very Day

The huge Vitonola factories are the best evidence of Vitonola popularity. In Chicago, in New York, in Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit—in every large city in the country and in scores upon scores of smaller towns of every size—the Vitonola stands supreme for its marvelous tone. Everywhere every dealer asks the stated price.

Still, Here Today, We Can Offer
These Justly Celebrated Phonographs in the Six Leading Models We Illustrate at Half and Less Than Half Regular Prices.

The Christmas gift you have longed for, the gift you wanted for your home, now, because of this gigantic transaction, is within reach of most every home in Chicago at a low price that we can barely hope to see quoted again. The quality and worthfulness of each model of the Vitonola is of the same very high standard—a standard that demands best in every possible way.

Note the handsome, artistic cabinets, the harmonious lines, the rich veneers, the careful finish and polish, and the fact that all relief work is carved in the body of the cabinet to stay forever. Note the full, large sizes, too.

But There is also the Vitonola motor, noiseless, tireless, easy winding (while playing if you wish). Powerful and specially designed to give that absolutely constant speed that is essential to perfect tone. The most costly type of improved motor used in any phonograph today. Reliable as a fine timepiece and built the same way.

Also The Vitonola tone filter, comprised of the tone chamber, laminated (layer on layer) construction, and the result of years of experience and experiment. Essential to perfect tone. And the tone modifier, a "focal-shutter" device in the throat of the Vitonola, regulated from the outside of the cabinet, gives perfect tones in all volumes.

The Exclusive Vitonola Octagonal Reproducer
Duplex Tone Arm, perfected Sound Amplifier, Tempo Regulator and Improved Tone Modifier distinguish the Vitonola above all other phonographs.

The Test That Tells
It is by the musical test that the Vitonola should be judged, for it is this outstanding quality that has gained for it its far-reaching popularity. Place the Vitonola alongside other makes of phonographs. Hear its rendition of vocal and instrumental music most difficult of reproduction. Then play these same records on the other phonographs. The results will justify every claim for Vitonola superiority, and prove the importance and fairness of this test in selling, and emphasize the sensational values this most extraordinary Christmas event makes possible.

Note the Models Illustrated—Note the Prices—Note the Actual Values—and the Savings—and Remember to Look for the Vitonola Name on Each Phonograph

BY FRANK SMITH.

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—The American league meeting, along with the board of directors' session, kept scribbles standing around the Hotel Belmont today until their backs ached and their feet protested.

The league session was one of the most protracted in the history of the organization. It was 3 o'clock when the doors closed on the moguls and it was 7:30 when they opened to admit the scribes. Then there wasn't anything given out that wasn't expected. But the session had adjourned and westerners have their train reservations for tomorrow.

Humors buzz in corridors. It was in the lobby of the hotel where news that probably might interest the fans could be gathered. Then all the news was not reliable. This much can be said, however, there is a hen on the nest between the Yankees and the White Sox.

Manager Bill Glessner and Harry Grabner, secretary of the south side team, held lengthy conferences with Miller Huggins of the New York Americans, the Chicago boys seeking to get one or more of the holes in the worn-out white hose.

What the deal is could not be ascertained, but it appears to be a cinch it will be a cash transaction unless Huggins is sweet on one or more of the youngsters picked up by Commy.

Cobb said to have signed. Persistent reports—and they are believed to be correct—had it that Tyrus Cobb was in town and that he had signed a contract to manage the Tigers at a fancy figure.

Other than ratifying the new national agreement, the league meeting developed little action—that is, so far as any one on the outside could tell. But by the grapevine route it was learned there was considerable action inside the conference room. One bomb is said to have been set off by Col. Jake Ruppert of the Yankees, who insisted on telling all about the alleged "syndicate ball" between the Red Sox and Yankees owners. What was said behind closed doors, of course, is a secret, but what Col. Ruppert said in the lobby is not.

This Explains It. The colored rather resented the tactics employed to bring out the fact that the Rupperts held a mortgage on the Red Sox park. The facts are, according to Ruppert, that France, owner of the Red Sox, needed a loan, and the Boston banks were holding him up for a fancy premium. He carried his troubles to the Rupperts, who, who the Rupperts estate say a good business deal and the Yankees.

In addition to threatening the Boston mortgage, the "syndicate" managers agreed to set aside a fund to employ an assistant to the state's attorney in Chicago to prosecute the ball players indicted by the Cook county grand jury.

There was another break when Col. Ruppert refused to sit on the board of directors, so the "loyal" five proceeded to give the places to St. Louis, Cleveland, Washington, and Philadelphia.

Prolong Life of Spittball. The magnates fell in line with the National league on the spittball, agreeing that pitchers with the elusive delivery who were listed in that class last year shall be permitted to keep their "goods" until they have ended their usefulness.

It was the sense of the meeting that the coming season should open on April 12, so that is one subject on which the major leagues are in accord.

Anderson-Drew Rollers Go Into Second Place

The Anderson & Drew five rolled into second place in the main event at the city bowling tournament, with a total of 2,910. A. Schalk and T. McGinn were the leading pin getters for the team, the former with 630 and McGinn with 617.

STAYERS SIGN STALEY STARS. George Hales, Blacklock and "Hula" Shoemaker, along with Duane Amann, will be in the lineup of the Stars tomorrow when they play the Cardinals for the city pro football championship at Pratt Field. The first three played with the Staleys this season.

CUBS MAP OUT SPRING-HEGIRA TO SUN KISSED WEST AS BOREAS RAVES

BY L. E. SANBORN.

President William L. Veeck and Secretary John O. Seys of the Cubs returned to Chicago yesterday, the former from the Atlantic coast and the latter from the Pacific, and inside of an hour after their arrival had the spring training trip of the Cubs practically completed.

During his two weeks' stay in the west Seys framed up a training trip along lines favored by Manager Evers to give the players a lot of conditioning on the coast and some polishing off work on the way back, without subjecting them to too many nights in Pullmans.

Leave Chicago March 3. As a result the Cubs will leave Chicago on the night of March 3, which will keep them within the limits set for training trips. One week will be spent at Pasadena in limbering up, before the first games are played March 12 and 13 with the Los Angeles team. Then the better part of a second week will be put in at Pasadena, conditioning the Cubs before the next games, with the Vernon team in Los Angeles, March 19 and 20. A game with the Merchants' team of Pasadena on March 16 will vary the monotony. The third week of March will be spent playing the Portland, Seattle, and Salt Lake teams of the Pacific coast league in their training towns contiguous to Los Angeles.

Leave Camp March 24. Then the Cubs will journey northward, after playing Saturday and Sunday games with the Angels and Vernon on March 24 and 27. A week will be divided among the Sacramento, San Francisco, and Oakland teams, winding up with morning and afternoon games on April 3, after which the Evers tribe will travel eastward to play a few games before opening the season in Chicago April 13.

The trip as framed will give the Cubs three weeks in California with a minimum of traveling.

EVERETT ELEVEN TRIMS LONG BEACH. Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 17.—The Everett, Wash., high school football team won the unofficial western interscholastic championship today by defeating the Long Beach high school, 25 to 0.

MATTY SUFFERS RELAPSE, BUT NOT IN GRAVE DANGER

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Christy Mathewson, fighting the long, hard battle of the tuberculosis patient, has suffered a temporary relapse through contracting a cold, but reports that he is in a grave condition are denied by his physician, Edward N. Packard.

"Big Six" had a cold recently, which raised his fever and started him coughing," said the doctor. "He has practically overcome the cold and settled back to the struggle that every such patient must wage before he can regain his health."

The physician said chances for his ultimate recovery are bright.

WOODS and WATERS

FLORIDA business men, especially the chambers of commerce and other booster organizations, do not like to have rattlesnakes discussed, because they think it hurts business. They do not seem to realize the deadly Florida profiteer keeps ten times more people out of the state than does the fear of rattlesnakes. The rattler's active fangs consist of two hooklike affairs in the roof of the mouth. If these are removed or broken place, and they are renewed naturally every three weeks or so. When not in use the fangs fold back snugly, but when cleared for action they project prong fashion. The striking snake coils like a flash, the fangs strike the victim with a downward motion, the lower jaws snap shut, exerting pressure on the poison glands, and the deed is done.

Snake bite outfits may be bought, and while one's chances of being struck are remote, the possession of one of these outfits is most reassuring to those who travel about in snake country.

NEWS OF SOCIETY

Elite of the Elite Gather at First of the Assembly Balls

There was no tiddling at the Assembly ball last night in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone, for the younger set is not invited to the assemblies, the so-called balls of the season, which had their inception before the Chicago fire. About 500 were present, including several of the original members.

Receiving were the wives of the governors Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. Howard P. Gillette, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. A. A. Sprague II, Mrs. John A. Stevenson, and Mrs. William R. Odell.

Mrs. Meeker wore a gown of sea-green, green and silver brocade, with a green velvet train. Mrs. Blair's gown was of scarlet velvet with rhinestone trimmings. Mrs. Carpenter wore French blue charmer's tulle with rhinestone. Mrs. Coleman's gown was of claret red and silver brocade. Mrs. Gillette wore black net embroidered in coral and gold. Mrs. Johnston wore satin and pearls. Mrs. Sprague was in French blue and silver lace. Mrs. Stevenson in brown and gold tulle and gold lace, and Mrs. Odell in tulle and gold lace.

Instead of wearing corsage bouquets, as they did last year, the women in the receiving line wore flowers to match their gowns.

Among the guests were Messrs. and Mesdames: Walter P. Blair, Bruce Ballard, John A. Blair, George A. McKimble, Thelma Broom, Geo. D. McLaughlin, Capt. J. Brown Jr., Secor Cunningham, Capt. J. McHenry, Edward F. Carr, James Ward Thorne, Frederick H. Bartlett, William E. Clev, Norman Williams, William P. Martin, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Henry D. In the Spirit of Comradeship

An Address by Dr. Theodore G. Soares of the University of Chicago

"We have never learned how to live together. The great enterprise of industry which involves the ability to work together baffles us. The problem of race living side by side is our constant dread. The patriotism of the nations instead of inspiring a great world fellowship excites distrust and constantly threatens war. Only religion can teach us how to live together. Religion is the faith that there is actually operating in the world a divine power to help men to live together in comradeship with one another."

Symphony Devoted to Beethoven on His 150th Anniversary

BY RUTH MILLER.
This week's symphony program was devoted to the works of Beethoven in honor of the 150th anniversary of that master symphonist's birth.

Beginning with the thirteenth Mozartian "King Stephen" overture, it included the fourth and seventh symphonies, the recitative "Jehovah! Hear, O Hear Me," and aria "O My Heart is Sore Within Me," from "The Mount of Olives," and "Adelaide," with that splendid artist among vocalists, Edward Johnson, as soloist.

Playing Beethoven is an entirely matter of fact bit of musical procedure with our orchestra. The notes are there. They play them. The precision of attack, the tonal solidity, the orchestral balance, the contrast in coloring, are there in all their superlative development, but there is nothing celestial, nothing of the emotionally fine spun about it all. It is merely excellent playing by practical men, who, confronted with their weekly musical task, did it faithfully, with consummate skill and artistry, and in a most businesslike fashion.

And why shouldn't they be precise about it? Consider how many hundred times in the twenty to thirty years that they have served in that orchestra they have played these Beethoven symphonies. Can any one demand that they infuse fire, eagerness, and blazing inspiration into music that by reputation has become as familiar to them as the multiplication table?

But the audience revelled in the glories of the music. Its rich melodies and symphonic philosophies were palpably among the dearest of their musical memories, and they were more than emphatic in their manifested approval.

In both of his appearances on the program Edward Johnson's singing was without blemish. Gifted with a fine natural voice, he adds into it with unimpeachable phrasing, imagination, musical logic, fine rhythmic sense, flawless enunciation, and splendid style. Forsooth an artist for whom we should be most grateful.

The program will be repeated this evening.

Strong shipping demand lifted hog values, the market showing a bulge of 15-35c at the high time. Outlet shippers this week absorbed the largest amount of hogs since July. After urgent orders were filled, prices weakened, due mainly to the fact several large packers were out of the trade. Demand centered on light weights, which topped at $9.50. The day's general average was $9.15, the highest since Monday.

Cattle closed largely steady with the previous session, but the bulk showed net losses of $1.00 to $1.50 for the week. Few good cattle were on hand, not many crossing the $10.00 line. Steers topped at $11.60 and a few loads of yearlings reached $11.50. Butcher stock sold $10.00 to $1.50 lower than a week ago, and calves fell $1.00.

Lamb prices broke 25-50c and sheep largely declined 50c. The lamb top at $10.75 stood the lowest since July, 1918, the bulk bringing $7.75-10.50. Aged ewes were in liberal supply, with the best at $4.25, and the bulk at $2.75-4.25.

Seven western markets received 11,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 35,000 sheep, against 15,000 cattle, 40,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep the previous Friday, and 21,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs, and 27,000 sheep a year ago.

Receipts for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against 1,200 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 2,300 sheep at Chicago the corresponding Saturday a year ago.
